

LABFIND TERMS OF USE

Updated: 11/08/2022

Introduction

LabFind is operated by LabStats (Cordance Operations, LLC). By using LabFind you agree to all terms and conditions in this “Terms of Use” as well as the “Privacy Policy”. These terms explain conditions that apply to your use and constitute a legally binding agreement between you and LabStats.

Intended Use

LabFind provides near-real-time availability information for some technology resources on partner school campuses. LabFind may be used by current students and faculty of those institutions to be matched with, and locate, those resources. LabFind should not be used to compile or cache information about school resources. It should also not be used in excess to the extent that it affects the availability of the service.

Registration

Registration is required to use LabFind. You will be required to provide your school issued email address. Registration must be completed on each device you wish to use LabFind, as you will be authorized on that device only.

Collected Data

LabFind collects your email address, through the registration process, for the purpose of verifying your access to LabFind. In addition, certain usage data may be collected for the purpose of understanding how LabFind is used. This information will be used by LabStats to improve LabFind and may also be provided to your school so they may understand demand for technology resources.

Accuracy

LabFind exists to provide you with near-real-time data which you may use for informational purposes. Reasonable efforts have been made to provide accurate data, however, no guarantees are offered as to that accuracy, and neither LabStats, nor your school, are liable for any errors or inaccuracies.

Navigation

LabFind may be used to navigate from your current location to a new location. You should exercise caution while using the navigation instructions and you accept all responsibility while using them.

Data Usage

LabFind requires an active internet connection, either cellular or WIFI. LabFind makes regular web requests to obtain near-real-time information and may consume large amounts of data. You are responsible for all charges from your internet or cellular provider as a result of this data consumption.

Intellectual Property

LabFind is the intellectual property of LabStats. You have a limited license to use it for its intended purposes, though this license may be revoked at any time for any reason.

Change of Terms

LabStats may change these "Terms of Use" from time to time. Continued use of LabFind after publishing of changed terms shall serve as acceptance of the new terms.